FLORIDA LUMBER MARKET

Not many years have passed since sawmill operators in Florida were hard-pressed to find a market for their lumber, and owners of timberland wondered anxiously how long they would have to wait before cashing in on their holdings.

That was during the dull days of the depression when the sight of a new building under construction was not only an oddity but a sensation.

Now, however, the picture is vastly different, for construction has been mounting greatly, with building activities stimulated by the federal housing authority and national defense programs.

Better times assuredly are here again for owners of timberlands and lumber manufacturers. Therefore, C. H. Coulter, assistant state forester, is advising timberland owners not to sell hastily but to investigate the improved market before contracting to sell stumpage or logs.

Large trees that have not been turpentine and worked-out turpentine timber will yield the best returns during a period such as the present. Mr. Coulter points out, adding, however, that black pine, pine-oak, and other trees and timbers should be marketed at the same time in order to improve the stand and to take advantage of the better prices.

Feature Races At Palm Beach Kennel Club B Attractive

Large Crowds Attending Race Course Each Week Night

Thrilling, evenly matched features, many in which the first three greyhounds to cross the finish line cannot be separated from the pack till after examination of the photo are now a nightly occurrence at the Palm Beach Kennel Club.

Most of the new greyhounds kennelled at the West Belvedere track now have enough racing experience to judge their best speed and racing aptitude. Alan Mack is giving the lines, some of the best "hot" features ever seen at this track.

Quintana races have rapidly moved to the track as one of the most popular features of the nightly programs and last week the management of the Palm Beach Kennel Club announced that due to the many requests for more of this popular event they were adding another quintana to the card. The quintana races are now the fourth, sixth, eighth and tenth races.

The largest purse paid off in the last season was recorded in a quintana race last week when the Blue Eye and Maroon Andrew won one and two in the fourth race.

The $4,000 quintana moving strip on only two weeks ago to the Cheyenne prize established a quintana prize of record.

The figure is placed to suit them to come when they continued to pay $200 to lucky holders of tickets in the 14 quintana combination.

But can figures be relied upon to indicate the quality of the racing? The new high for a double paid off so far this season was reached last Saturday when the Star and Maroon Andrew won the double race paying $481.00.

Two other daily double winners that same week were close behind the record. May's Beauty and Electric Star won the double combination race, paying to the winner $153.40 double and Mary Lou and Lazy Ball turned the double payoff night for a $265.80 triple payoff.

LINCOLN'S MILITARY GENIUS

Early in life, Abraham Lincoln revealed the ready resourcefulness which was to serve him so well in his later years in the White House.

On one occasion, when he was a young man, he was drilling a company of soldiers, when a most perplexing problem arose. The men approached a gate, marching 20 men abreast and to save his life, Abe could not think of the command to turn this line edgewise so it could pass through the opening.

Just in the instant when all seemed lost, Lincoln cried out: "This company is dismissed for two minutes, when it will fall in again on the other side of the gate."—Wall Street Journal.

Senator Andrews Is Sworn In For His Full Six Year Term

Has Proved Himself A Friend Of Florida And The Nation

Senator Charles O. Andrews, of Ocala, on January 3, took the oath of office as U. S. Senator from Florida, and has entered on his term of six years. His personal friends paid him much honor in the Senate Chamber.

Senator Andrews in the four years he has served has done an outstanding and excellent job of work not only in behalf of his own state of Florida, but for the nation at large.

His work has not been of the theoretical flamboyant type, but rather the quiet, strenuous nature, according to the scholar which he is. He has not been a rubber stamp senator, and when occasion demanded, he has shown his feet and defend the action he had determined upon. He has always commanded the highest esteem and commendation of his present colleagues.

The fact that his service gave Florida its first Senatorial constituency was shown by the campaign in which they returned him to Senate service by the overwhelming vote of the people in the spring primary and fall election.

Trespass Law Is Upheld

A decision by the Supreme court of Florida, this week, upholds the trespass law of the state. Judge Alford, the new member of the Florida court, handed down the important decision in the case which had been appealed from the Circuit Court. Judge Alford held that a hunting license does not give the holder with any title to game and fish. He does it grant him any property rights superior to the right of the land owner. The state, the Constitution, must properly rights secure to the owner of large or small tracts, and such owners also have the exclusive right to hunt and fish on their property if fenced and posted according to law. This means that hunters and fishermen must notify Harold Rosenberger, Canal Point, Fla.

Ask Ickes Permit To Kill More Deer

A delegation of Florida state officials, headed by Secretary Nathan Mayo, were in Washington this week in conference with Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes. They want the secretary to give the state the right to enter the Seminoles to kill off the alleged sick deer.

A year ago this privilege was denied Seminoles by the Conservation Commission, when the Seminoles put up the plea that they needed the deer for their subsistence. Ickes was hoping that the ban will still be sustained by the Interior Department. Hunters in the Glades section are hoping that the ban will still be sustained by the Interior Department.

Discusses Airport
